COMMENT and RUMOR-

Marine Barracks
Washington, D. C.
February 22, 1944.

Mr. Hartvigsen
Ocean Beach News
Dear Friend.

Am enclosing check in amount of $5 for continuance of my subscription to the "newsy" Ocean Beach News to Feb., 1946. We find it a fine source of information as to maintaining contact with our old Ocean Beach friends. We will be back there, when the war is over, to settle down.

Sincerely,
—CHARLES DAVIS,
Lt. U. S. Marine Corps.

(Ed. note)—The Davis family when located here owned a commodious home at Guizot and Brighton sts., and we are sure the lieutenant and Marie will be welcomed back to this community as soon as circumstances permit their return.

Citizens who wish to help "Keep His America American" should be sure they are registered and entitled to vote at coming elections this year. Deadline on registration for the May 16 primary is April 7.

The News was honored this week by a pair of friends we were glad to have call. Carlyle Reed, La Mesa-El Cajon newspaper man and president of the San Diego county unit of California Newspaper Publishers association, and Joe Vurgason, editor National City News and member of the state advisory board of our newspaper association.

We've particularly noticed all store windows have been considerably "spruced" up the past few months which makes for increased business and increased interest of the buying public in our local institutions. Professional window trimmers are being engaged by some of the stores to get this better appearance as the regular help no longer have time to do this important work and attend to all other duties of unpacking, marking stock, filling shelves and indoor display, besides giving their customers undivided attention.

How many people are fed in Ocean Beach cafes each day? Quite a few we can say judging from an order for "Guest Checks" received in February from Mabel & Lynn's Coffee Shop, 1877 Bacon st. One quarter million checks were ordered—that's 250,000 meals or lunches—enough to keep Lynn, Mabel, and the girls busy for several days.

Bacon will be down to one red point per pound next week. Many of we folks who enjoy this delicacy for breakfast and other occasions will be pleased to get an extra slice when hungry.

A certain Missouri editor refuses to publish obituary notices of people who, while living, failed to subscribe to his newspaper, and gives this pointed reason: "People who do not take the home town paper are dead anyway, and their passing away has no news value."

GOVERNMENT ISSUE

Sitting on my G. I. bed,
My G. I. hat upon my head,
My G. I. pants, my G. I. shoes,
I wish they'd give us G. I. booze,
G. I. razors and G. I. combs—
G. I. wish that I was home.

They issue everything you need,
Paper to write on, books to read,
Your belt, your socks, your G. I. tie—
It's all for free, nothing to buy,
They issue food that makes us grow—
G. I. want a long furlough.

You eat your food from G. I. plates,
Buy all you want at G. I. rates,
It's G. I. this and G. I. that,
It's G. I. work that breaks your back.
Everything here is government issue—
G. I. wish that I could kiss you.

In Congress Race

Jeanette E. Daley, former assemblywoman from the 78th district, who today announces her candidacy for Congress from San Diego county. Longtime resident of this county, Mrs. Daley made an enviable reputation when she fought the discredited Olson regime in the legislature.

Sunset Cliffs Man Loses Life in Surf Trying to Save Niece

In a heroic attempt to rescue his 13-year-old niece from a riptide in which she was caught as she swam in the surf at Encinitas, Robert Baker, about 33, of 4417 Hill st., Sunset Cliffs, lost his life Sunday.

Going to the rescue of the girl, Joelle Johnson, of Vernal, Utah, Baker himself was caught in the tide. Bill Rumsey, lifeguard was summoned from Solano Beach, but when he reached Baker the latter was floating in the surf, apparently dead of a heart attack. The girl reached shore safely.

Rumsey brought Baker's body to shore, where lifeguards and a physician worked for more than an hour in futile efforts to revive him. The tragedy was witnessed by Baker's wife and other members of his family, who were picnicking at the beacn.

Deputy Coroner Dave Bone ordered Baker's body taken to the Bryant mortuary in Encinitas.

Two Sailors Rescued

Two sailors were rescued by City Lifeguard Lt. Fred Crowther and Lifeguards Roger Grady and Paul Ingledou when their small rowboat was caught in a swift outgoing tide in the Ocean Beach channel and they were being swept rapidly out to sea.

The guards put out in a larger rowboat and towed the sailors, Walter Wimazal, 22, and David Larsen, 18, to shore, Lifeguard Capt. Charles Hardy reported.

True wisdom is to know what is best worth knowing, and to do what is best worth doing.—Humphrey.

Important Note On Tax Assessment

Beginning next Monday, the county assessor, Crowell D. Eddy, will begin tabulating and valuing all property in the county for a financial base upon which to determine the tax rate necessary to raise sufficient finance to keep local government and school systems running.

All taxpayers who made a tax statement last year and who are not veterans will receive a mail form from Eddy's office about March 6th. By filling out this form and mailing it back to the assessor within 10 days, your tax declaration for the year 1944-45 will be completed. Veterans who wish to claim veteran's exemption cannot make their statement by mail of the law requires that they must make their request annually in the presence of the assessor or his deputy. Families of veterans who are out of the Continental United States in the service should make arrangements for their veteran's exemption as soon after March 6th as possible to care for any delays that may occur.

Property owners who did not make a statement in San Diego county last year must come either to the office in the Civic Center, or to the branch offices to make their statements this year. Deputies will call on all business places as in former years to assist the taxpayer in making his declaration.

Race Problems Discussed By Kiwanis Members

Dr. Frank R. Felt was program chairman at Ocean Beach Kiwanis club Tuesday evening. Rev. James H. Hughes of La Mesa had been expected as speaker but was unavoidably delayed, therefore the meeting was turned into an open forum with the subject "Race Problems."

General discussion showed a wide diversity of opinion of the members present and acknowledgment made that it would be a difficult problem to reach a solution satisfactory to everyone.

Announcement was made that the local Kiwanis club would sponsor the Red Cross war fund drive in the business section of Ocean Beach.

Philip S. Harris, vicar of Trinity Episcopal church, was introduced to the club by Heber Hartvigsen and inducted as a member of the group by Burritt S. Mills.

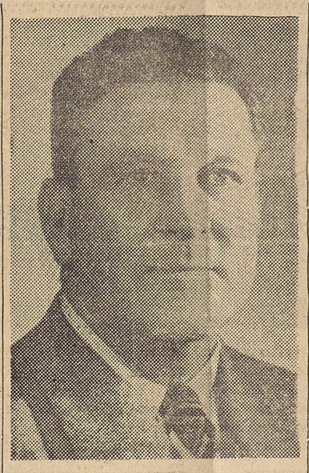
Military guest for the evening was Corp. Clyde Rhodes, U.S.M.C., of Checotah, Okla.

Ashton Helsel of Escondido was a guest of President Glen Jones. Clyde Tallman, manager of Elm's Togery, a guest of B. S. Mills. Rev. F. F. Oster a guest of his son, Dr. Winton B. Oster.

Visiting Kiwanians were Dick Barbour of the San Diego club and Bob Fuller of the La Mesa club.

Troops Arrive With Motorized Equipment for Army-Navy Show

This 30-ton medium tank is among the 200 pieces of war equipment which will be seen in the huge free Army-Navy War Show, "San Diego Attacks," which will be given at Balboa Stadium on the nights of March 10, 11 and 12. The 1000 highly trained combat troops who will simulate an assault on a South Pacific enemy strongpoint in the show, arrived with the equipment Monday night.



De Graff Austin Makes Plain His Policy In Bid as Supervisor

In announcing my candidacy for the office of county supervisor, first district, may I make the following brief statement.

I regard the public service as a trust calling for a sense of loyalty to principle and an awareness of responsibility; positive action and flexibility of viewpoint must be maintained by a public servant if he is to meet the present-day challenge of constant change.

In local government we must cooperate in every way with the war effort!

If elected to the office of supervisor, I shall do my best to preserve the gains we have made in the establishment of industry locally, that as little of it as possible may be lost in the postwar period; to support faithfully the best practices for solving the problems of juvenile delinquency: a constant vigilant attention to the water program and placing in operation the San Diego county water authority as the means of bringing Colorado river water to our county for the benefit of city and county alike; complete cooperation with the San Diego member of the State Highway Commission in his effort to make that body more definitely aware of our local highway shortage; closer cooperation between city and county government; a comprehensive postwar program with all groups, public and private, participating and looking toward the development of such items as a municipal auditorium, a low-elevation highway to Imperial Valley, better cross-town transportation facilities, complete development of all county recreation areas, with an eye to the tremendous future travel to this county.

And, above all else, a definite determination at the conclusion of the war as to whether we are to remain a federalized community, run by remote control on Washington formulas, or regain for ourselves the right of self-government on our local affairs.

I stand for the latter!

—DeGRAFF AUSTIN.

Harry Ussery's Services Win Navy Recognition

Warrant Officer Harry Ussery, U.S.N., for many years a resident of Ocean Beach and member of Point Loma lodge, last week was given special recognition by Navy publicity men in the following story:

FATHER-SON DUO ENDS AT NAVAL STATION HERE

A father-and-son combination at the Naval Air station here was broken up recently with the detachment of Carpenter Harry Ussery, U.S.N., ret., who has coached many boxers seen in San Diego amateur and professional arenas, leaving William McLane Ussery, seaman 2c, U.S.N., to carry on at the station.

The son enlisted in the navy Dec. 14, 1943, almost 25 years to the day after his father. They are residents of 711 S. Dominion st.

Carpenter Ussery has been at the station for four years, part of the time as a civilian employe while on the navy retired list. He was called back to service in June, 1941, and assigned to the inspection and survey department, part of his duties being to develop the station's athletic program.

His 18-year-old son gave up his studies at Sweetwater Union high school to follow Ussery's footsteps in the service. After recruit training, he was transferred to the air station and became a striker for a petty officer rating as ship's cook.

Most of the warrant officer's navy career has been spent in destroyer repair duty, but he also aided in the Hawaiian islands. He has been commended twice for making repairs to destroyers under dangerous conditions and once for developing boxing and wrestling teams in a destroyer squadron.

Among the boxers who fought under Ussery's direction before making names for themselves in professional rings were Babe Risko, former middleweight champion of the world, and Dale Sparr, who had a record of 114 wins and one draw in his 115 navy fights and went on to box all welter and middleweight champions in professional circles from 1935 to 1939. Both fighters appeared here frequently.

San Diegans Launch Greatest War Fund In Red Cross History

RED CROSS War Fund 1944

San Diegans—workers, housewives, business and professional men, and those in uniform—join citizens throughout the nation this week in launching the greatest Red Cross fund-raising appeal in history—the 1944 War Fund campaign, which seeks $868,000 locally.

"The deeds of the Red Cross cannot be evaluated in terms of money," Donald E. Hanson, chairman, commented. "Mercy, justice, humanitarianism these describe the deeds of the Red Cross, and such services cannot be purchased with dollars."

But to keep the innumerable, world-wide activities of the Red Cross in full swing demands liberal financial support, especially in wartimes," Hanson stressed.

This year the Red Cross is 21 times its size in normal peace times, Hanson pointed out, and the need for monetary assistance is correspondingly great.

"Wherever our warriors are fighting," Hanson stated, "the Red Cross is at his side. We at home can be 'at his side' through our Red Cross contributions."

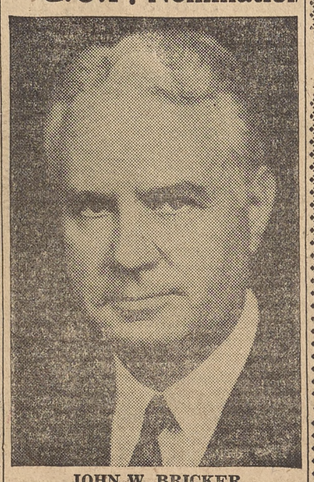
Point Loma High Student Talent Will Appear March 9

Janet Lush, commissioner of cultural affairs, announces the student talent program will be presented Thursday, March 9, at the regular assembly periods, 9:10 and again at 9:50. Friends and parents are most cordially invited to attend this and all programs given in the auditorium.

Janet has arranged a program including several new "finds" in talent as well as a few of the Pt. Lomans we always enjoy.

The program will include the following students: William Welch with his clarinet; Betty and Marjorie Mishler in a vocal duet; Estelle Partlow, a dramatic reading in costume; Olive Krushat, soprano soloist; Eleanor Swenson and Alice Hall, violin duet; Loudres Souza, dancer; Joanne Nickell, dancer; Nancy Peterson, soloist at the piano; Kenny O'Neal with his saxophone. GeniA Sprinkle will graciously serve as accompanist and second piano with Nancy. Janet Lush will appear as commentator

Campaigning for G.O.P. Nomination



JOHN W. BRICKER

Ohio's three-term governor has launched an active campaign for the presidential nomination at the Republican National Convention to be held in Chicago, June 26.

James B. Abbey Local Resident To Run for Congress

Winning the war is America's No. 1 job, and after that this country must tackle vital international and national problems, James B. Abbey, former district attorney, declares in a statement announcing his candidacy for the Republican nomination for Congress.

"In the United States we have two schools of thought on the postwar situation. One group believes that after the war we should stay apart from the rest of the world and avoid collaboration. The other, an internationally-minded group, believes we should finance, feed and democratize the whole world with American dollars. Each of these extremes, in my opinion, is wrong.

"It seems to me that in between the two lies the logical course that will permit America to take its place in world affairs and collaborate with other nations without endangering its own economic system. The need of the times is to elect men to congress who will keep the welfare and best interests of our own people constantly in mind while achieving victory, and aiding in the postwar period of world-wide readjustment.

"There are those who feel that when the war is ended, everything will be rosy, but serious-thinking men are taking a hard, practical view, convinced that when the stimulus of war spending is ended this country will have plenty of economic, social and political problems to solve. My contention is that it will take a conservative type of government, rather than our present administration by bureaus, boards and commissions, to keep our nation on an even keel."

Abbey was the Republican nominee in the 1942 congressional race, one of the closest political contests ever staged in this county, which was decided by a margin of only a few hundred votes. He is a past presiednt of the bar association and San Diego County Employes association, past commander of his V.F.W. post, and served three years as administrator of the Mattoon act settlement program.

History owes its excellency more to the writer's manner than to the material of which it is composed.—Goldsmith.

Many Men Seeking Nomination May 16

Spring rains generally bring a crop of mushrooms in fallow ground but we haven't seen them so far this spring, however, bursting forth in just such suddenness as mushrooms appear, candidates are announcing themselves as fit men to serve as San Diego county supervisors.

A personal announcement is contained elsewhere on this page by DeGraff Austin, now serving in the San Diego city council, who is a high type citizen of undoubted integrity. Tuesday Harrison W. Mason and Dr. Chester H. Webber filed for the same office. Mason is publisher of the Adams Avenue Examiner whose home is at 4691 Felton st. He is an energetic civic worker and will no doubt have considerable following in the southeast part of the city. Dr. Webber is a dentist and has been a member of the city school board .

Walter Bellon, supervisor of the first district the past two terms, has announced that he will not be a candidate for re-election.

Taking out a nominating petition for the same office Tuesday was George M. Sears of 3046 James st., formerly police chief of San Diego.

In the third supervisorial district, Dave Bird of National City, now chairman of the board of supervisors, has announced his candidacy for re-election.

Fred Kraft, Ocean Beach druggist, able assemblyman of the 78th district has announced that he will file on both the Republican and Democratic tickets for nomination or election at the May 16 primary. Kraft has been a very capable and aggressive worker in the state assembly and especialy as a member of the state ways and means committee, claiming his suggestions have saved the taxpayers millions of dollars by adoption of certain rules in expenditures, and care in adoption of the state budget.

Head-on Collision Injures Five

Five persons were injured Saturday when two autos collided head-on near the Consolidated-Vultee parts plant on Frontier st.

William Holloway of Linda Vista suffered major injuries and was taken to the county hospital. Marine Sgt. Irby Wayne Rucks, 22, of 2145 Abbott, escaped with minor lacerations and was treated in the police emergency hospital.

Others injured, all of whom were taken to the county hospital were Mrs. Christine Rucks, 22, who suffered a fractured leg; Miss Nellie Willis, 19, scalp wound and bruised forehead and eye; Miss Janie Willis, 21, lacerated lip and head, and fractured arm. Both are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Willis, 5080 Long Branch, and are now at home.

The first consideration a wise man fixeth upon is the great end of his creation; what it is, and wherein it consists; the next is of the most proper means to that end.—Walker.

MANY THANKS FRIENDS!

Having sold the Sam Cole barber shop I wish to thank my host of friends, young and old, for their patronage during the seven years I have conducted my business in Ocean Beach.

Sincerely,

Samuel E. Cole

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

American Fleet, Planes Strike Truk, Major Japanese Naval Base in Pacific; Tighten Deferment of Farm Workers; Allies, Nazis Trade Blows at Anzio

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

PACIFIC:
Strike Westward

Two years and two months after the Japs' assault on Pearl Harbor, U. S. air and sea forces struck back at the enemy's own big Pacific base of Truk in the Caroline islands, central hub of Jap naval operations for their extended empire reaching into the Philippines and Indies.

Preceding the attack on Truk by several hundred planes operating from carriers shielded by a strong armada of battleships, cruisers and destroyers, long-range Liberator bombers plastered the other big Jap bastion of Ponape in the Carolines.

Centrally located in Japan's Pacific empire, both Truk and Ponape serve as a radiating point for enemy naval and air forces to operate against an attacking force while close to home stations. Loss of the Carolines to the Japs would mean loss of their advantage of operating close to defensive bases, and, vice versa, give the Allies the advantage.

As the Liberators took to their wings to plaster the Carolines, U. S. ground forces were putting the finishing touches to fighting in the Marshalls where small islet garrisons were being rooted out, and in the Solomons, where Allied landings to the north trapped 22,000 Japs holding out on Bougainville, Buka and Choiseul.

FARM WORKERS:
Draft Shakeup

Only those farmers who can produce 16 war units a year will be eligible for agricultural deferment, and the 700,000 farmers now in 3-C for dependency as well as occupational reasons, also will be reclassified and put into 2-C only if their work is essential.

More than 1,000,000 farmers are in 2-C, of which 400,000 are said to be single and under 22 years of age. With the 700,000 presently in 3-C, 1,700,000 farmers considered essential will be put into 2-C and given six-month deferments, with their cases again reopened at the end of that time.

Action on farm workers' cases followed general tightening up of draft regulations in the face of military demands for about 1,000,000 more men by July 1, with city dads no longer deferrable for dependencies and industrial deferments subject to stricter standards.

RUSSIA:
Finns Talk Peace

Russian troops made further gains along the Estonian border on the north end of the 800 mile eastern front, while reports indicated that the Finns were sounding out Moscow for peace terms.

As the Russ continued to chew into Nazi defenses below Leningrad, the Germans fell back to avoid encirclement from the rear, and each step backward found them closer to Estonia and the other Baltic states of Latvia and Lithuania.

Russo-Finnish peace reportedly hung on terms Moscow might offer, with the Finns receptive to proposals based on the 1940 border, but opposed to occupation of their military and naval strongholds by the Reds.

With the Russ again in possession of much of the mining region of the southern Ukraine, Finland remained one of the last sources of nickel for the Germans, and Hitler reportedly sought to prevent Finland's desertion of the Axis to protect these deposits.

EUROPE:
Beachhead Battle

With the sea at their backs, U. S. and British troops traded heavy blows with the Germans on the Anzio beachhead below Rome, as the big battle for the Eternal City raged.

While other Allied troops crawled forward up rugged mountain slopes about Cassino, the forces at Anzio fought with tanks on leveler terrain, countering the full weight of the enemy's famed panzer units.

In assaulting the beachhead, the Germans concentrated on the northern sector, 10 miles above the port of Anzio, through which supplies were streaming to Allied forces. With the area under fire of enemy artillery and bombers, Allied troops fought hard to keep the port open.

Bloody fighting continued on the Cassino front, with doughboys taking one by one concrete houses made into fortified pillboxes by the Germans, and other Yanks struggling up monastery hill to gain command over Nazi positions and the supply road leading to Rome, which lay below.

CONGRESS:
Ban Subsidies

With congress voting against continuance of subsidy payments to reduce retail prices of meat, butter, milk and other food items, GOP house members served notice that if the President vetoed the bill they would attempt to make it part of the measure to extend price control after June 30, thus forcing the President to accept it or kill his whole anti-inflation program.

To assure continued existence of the Commodity Credit corporation in the event of a presidential veto of the subsidy clause, congress wrote in an emergency provision extending its life until permanent legislation could be passed.

In voting against consumer subsidies, congressional foes of such payments said they could only save the average family about 11 cents a day, during a time when national income was at an all-time level. Advocates of subsidies, however, said abolition of such payments would bring about a 7 per cent increase in the price of the foods affected, and a 3 per cent rise in the general cost of living, leading to a clamor for higher wages.

Bucks Labor Draft

While congress was voting down consumer food subsidies, AFL President William Green told a senate military committee holding hearings on the Austin - Wadsworth labor draft that wage stabilization in the face of increasing living costs was the principal cause of strikes.

Sen. Austin

Said Green: "The way to prevent strikes is through upward revision of wage rates, or even more effectively, by rigid reduction and control of prices of the necessities of life."

While Senator Austin (Vt.) contended that a labor draft would reduce turnover in war plants and allow the War Manpower commission tighter control over job placements, Green said the act would amount to involuntary servitude, since civilian workers would have to take jobs in plants operating at private profit.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

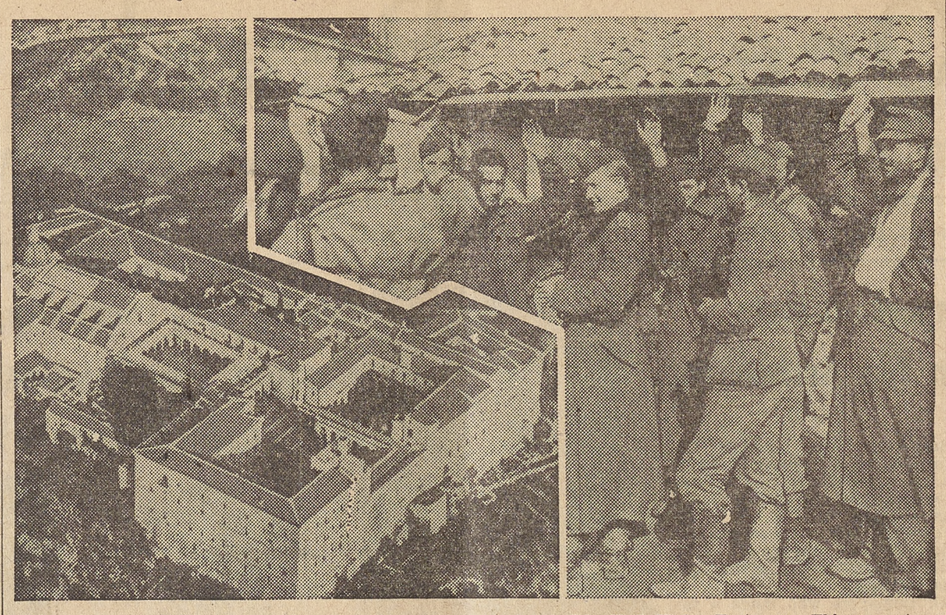
HICCUPS: A 21-year-old New York city girl, hiccuping for 44 days, appealed to the President to obtain a furlough for her physician, who is a captain in the army. She said that the doctor saved her life two years ago by a delicate operation when she was suffering from another prolonged attack of hiccups. The President granted a leave for the officer to treat her.

CENTENARIAN: George W. Camerer, a veteran of the Civil war, who now lives in Jerseyville, Ill., has just reached his 100th birthday. He said he "wouldn't mind joining the army and going to Africa if his feet would hold up." He has 10 grandsons, two great grandsons, and a granddaughter serving in the armed forces in the present World War II.

Monastery-Fortress Bombed by Allies; Nazis Talk

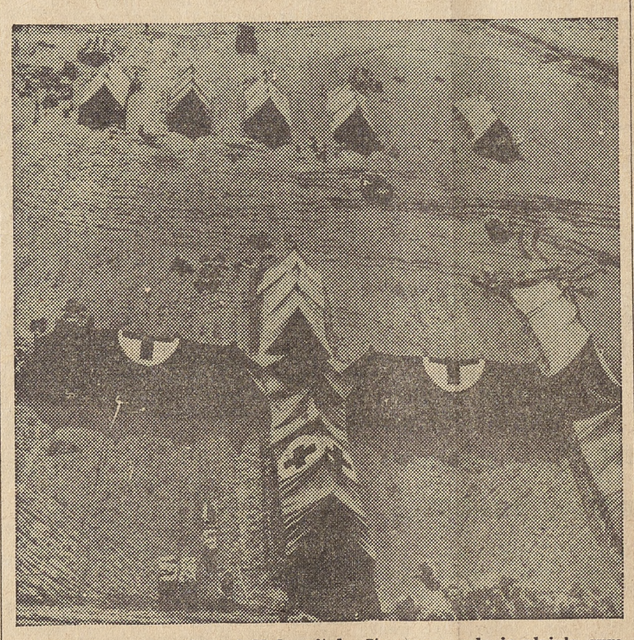


Left: Benedictine abbey on Mount Cassino which was bombed by U. S. Flying Fortresses. This monastery, which was founded in 529 A. D., had been used as a fortress by enemy troops which were firing down on our men, according to Allied explanations of the bombing. Leaflets were showered on the monastery a day before the bombardment warning the monks and any Italian refugees there to leave. President Roosevelt said that the bombing and shelling of the ancient abbey was justified. Right: German prisoners taken in fighting on the Rapido river in Italy answer questions asked by United States intelligence officer.

Stilwell Pledges China Based Land, Air Offensive

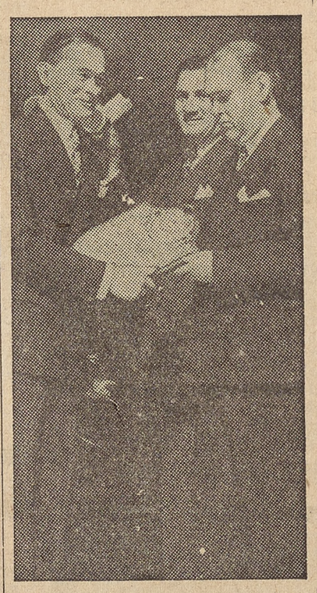
Left: These men are typical of the Chinese fighters trained by Lieut. Gen. Joseph Stilwell. They were photographed after they had scored a victory over the Japs and are sitting in a former Jap trench. Center inset: General Stilwell as he walked up to a Burma jungle fighting line. Right: Lieut. Col. Newman Burns and Capt. Arthur Draper (right), hold a flag found on the body of a Jap.

Red Crosses No Protection at Anzio



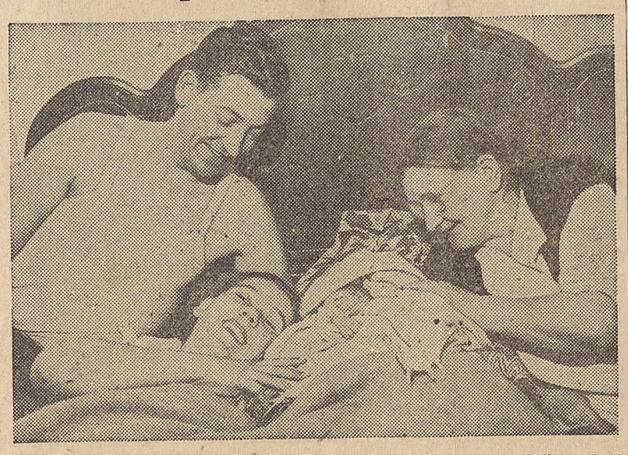
This is an American field hospital. Its mercy role is plainly symbolized by red crosses on white backgrounds easily seen from ground or air. Yet several of these hospitals were bombed by Germans in the beachhead area south of Rome. This particular hospital is near Nettuno. Several American nurses have been killed in attacks on such hospitals.

To Boxers at War



James J. Walker presents the Edward J. Neil Memorial awarded for 1943 by the boxing writers' association to 4,135 boxers, living and dead, who answered the nation's call to arms. Al Buck, president of the boxing association, receives the plaque.

Blizzard Stops Doc; Baby Born by Phone



Charles James Deering coos for his sister after he was delivered at home by his father and grandmother by telephone directions from Dr. Henry F. Heller of Des Plaines, Ill. A blizzard isolated the country home and it was impossible for the physician to get there. Charles was born shortly before dawn.

Too Big

Timothy ("Tiny") Baskin, 6 feet 7½ inches, complains he's "just a civilian." He was rejected, although he reduced from 350 to 212 pounds and had his arches lifted.

New Zea'and

New Zealand, discovered by the Dutch navigator Abel Tasman late in 1642, was named for Zeeland in the Dutch Republic a few years after Tasman's visit. From Tasman's day until 1802 the vaguely known land far northwest of New Zealand was called New Holland. In that year, England's Matthew Flinders made the first careful survey of its coast and re-named the giant—Australia. In the meantime Captain Cook had named its southeast section New South Wales.

Rye Ration

Tests reveal that milk and butter produced with a rye ration are of excellent quality and fully equal to that obtained with a barley ration. In the trials no difficulty was experienced in getting the cattle to eat the rye mixture nor were any detrimental effects observed in the health and condition of the animals.

Cotton Crop

The world crop of cotton for 1943 is estimated at 27,250,000 bales, or 1 per cent smaller than for the previous year. The U. S. crop was 2,100,000 bales larger.

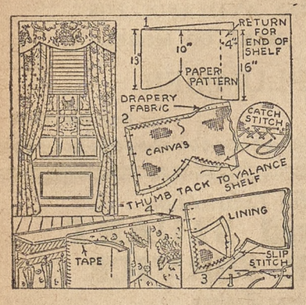
Typical Window of Eighteenth Century

WE KNOW that the Eighteenth Century is often called the golden age of the cabinet makers. We know that the English cabinet makers, Chippendale, Hepplewhite, Sheraton and the Adam brothers, flourished then and that their work was copied by our own cabinet makers of the late Colonial period. The furniture types of their day have become standard with us but we seldom stop to think about the kind of curtains and draperies that were originally used with this furniture.



Visitors to the reconstructed village of Williamsburg, Va., are often surprised to find that Venetian blinds were the fashion long before the Revolution, and the well tailored canvas lined valance used with floor length chintz draperies also seem modern to them. Yet these were the curtain styles when ladies and gentlemen wore powdered wigs. Valances were made just as we make them today and were tacked to a valance board in pretty much the same manner as is shown here.

NOTE—This is the second of a series on modern adaptations of period curtain fashions. Another version of the shaped type of valance is given in BOOK 5 of the series of ten booklets on sewing for the home. To get copy of Book 5 send 15 cents direct to:

'Vinegar' Bible Took Name From Error Printer Made

Did you ever hear of the Vinegar Bible? It seems there are seven copies of the Vinegar Bible known to exist in the world. The name came from a typographical error made at the head of a page on which "The Parable of the Vineyard" is recounted. John Basket, of Oxford, who printed the edition in 1716-1717, made a slight mistake and the result is "The Parable of the Vinegar."

At least one such Bible has been located, although others are said to be in England and New England. This one is in Shrewsbury, Monmouth County, N. J., a short ride from New York in gasoline days. There it is on exhibit in a canopied pew, one of two that head the nave, having been originally assigned to the rector's family and the Colonial governor.

HEAVIEST TAXED ARE U. S. CITIZENS

THE TREASURY DEPARTMENT gives us figures showing that we, Americans, are now the most heavily taxed people in the world and with more to come. In the United States the average per capita tax, including local, state and federal, for the year ending next June 30, is $357, for Great Britain it is $293 and for Canada, $261. With all such taxes we are paying only 36 per cent of our civilian and war costs, while Great Britain is paying 51.7 and Canada 47.1 per cent. We are leaving 64 per cent of our cost for ourselves, including the men in our armed forces, and the children and grandchildren to pay in the future.

Senator Ellender, of Louisiana, gives the total debt of the Allied nations, exclusive of the United States, as 126 billion dollars, the total of the Axis nations' debt as 92 billion dollars. Our debt, as of October 31, 1943, was 167 billion and going up at the rate of seven billion each month.

That a portion of our colossal expenditure is waste is not seriously questioned. To find the rat holes and stop them is a job Senator Byrd has been attempting in the face of almost insurmountable bureaucratic opposition. Each little bureaucrat has a pet theory for which he wishes to spend the taxpayers' money, or the money our progeny will have to pay. Senator Butler tells us we have disposed of between six and seven billions in an effort to buy good-will in South America, a project fathered by Vice President Wallace.

There is one expenditure the public would not object to and that is providing for an honest-to-goodness audit by disinterested auditors. We should like to know just where the money is going, how much and why.

PATRIOTISM AND 3-CENT LETTUCE

PEOPLE OF THE WEST COAST states are bitter in their denunciation of the Japanese in this country. In a poll taken by the Los Angeles Times, the vote for drastic treatment of all Japs, whether born here or not, was ten to one. In California the Japs were the market gardeners and fishermen. Their standards in this country are the standards of Japan. The price at which they sold truck garden products was so low that no others, living on anything like American standards, could compete with them. So far as small fruit, vegetables and fish were concerned, the presence of the Japs meant cheap prices for the residents of the cities. With their removal to concentration camps the prices of such commodities as those in which they had specialized doubled and trebled and more. Lettuce the Japs had sold at 3 cents a head went to 12 and 15 cents.

Under such conditions it is easy to understand why the farm population would resent the presence of the Japs, but one would rather expect the city folk to approve of them. Such has not been the case. It is city people, even more than those in the country, who today vote for perpetual banishment, who would send all Japs back to Japan. I wonder if that is a wartime emotion? My guess is that within five years following the close of the war, the Japs will again be the market gardeners of the west coast and city people will again welcome Jap produce prices. I think I hope that my guess is wrong. I trust my patriotism exceeds my desire for 3-cent lettuce.

TWO MEN WHO HAVE SERVED THE WORLD

IN EVERY COMMUNITY people are thinking of the problems of arriving at and maintaining world peace. Groups are talking of the subject and had there not been some definite leadership, offering plans and specifications, there would have been thousands of conflicting ideas. Herbert Hoover and Hugh Gibson, former ambassador to Belgium, provided that leadership and submitted the plans and specifications. They provided a foundation in the molding of American public opinion, and the demand of the people generally is that those ideas be the basis of the postwar peace program. The action of congress and the achievements of the Moscow, Teheran and Cairo conferences would indicate that in a broad way the proposals of Mr. Hoover and Mr. Gibson will be followed. In that they have well served a war weary world.

THOSE WHO WANT MORE, regardless of what they have, will never be satisfied.

WHEN TAMMANY ruled New York city, the leaders of the organization figured that each city job would provide an average of eight votes. When election day drew near and it was felt more votes might be needed, the Tammany sachems decreed the creation of such additional numbers of jobs as would provide the needed votes. A simple method of maintaining control.

Notifying the Next of Kin

A messenger boy hands a telegram to a father informing the parent that his soldier son has been wounded overseas, and thus is completed the last link in a long chain of military activity. At the front lines begins the process of reporting military casualties. Medical evacuation personnel put tags on all wounded men in the area. Casualties reports from each division adjutant are sent to the headquarters of the theater commander and relayed, usually by radiogram, to the U. S. Signal Corps Message Center in the Pentagon, Washington, D. C. Next stop is the casualty branch where reports are checked and from where the next of kin are notified.

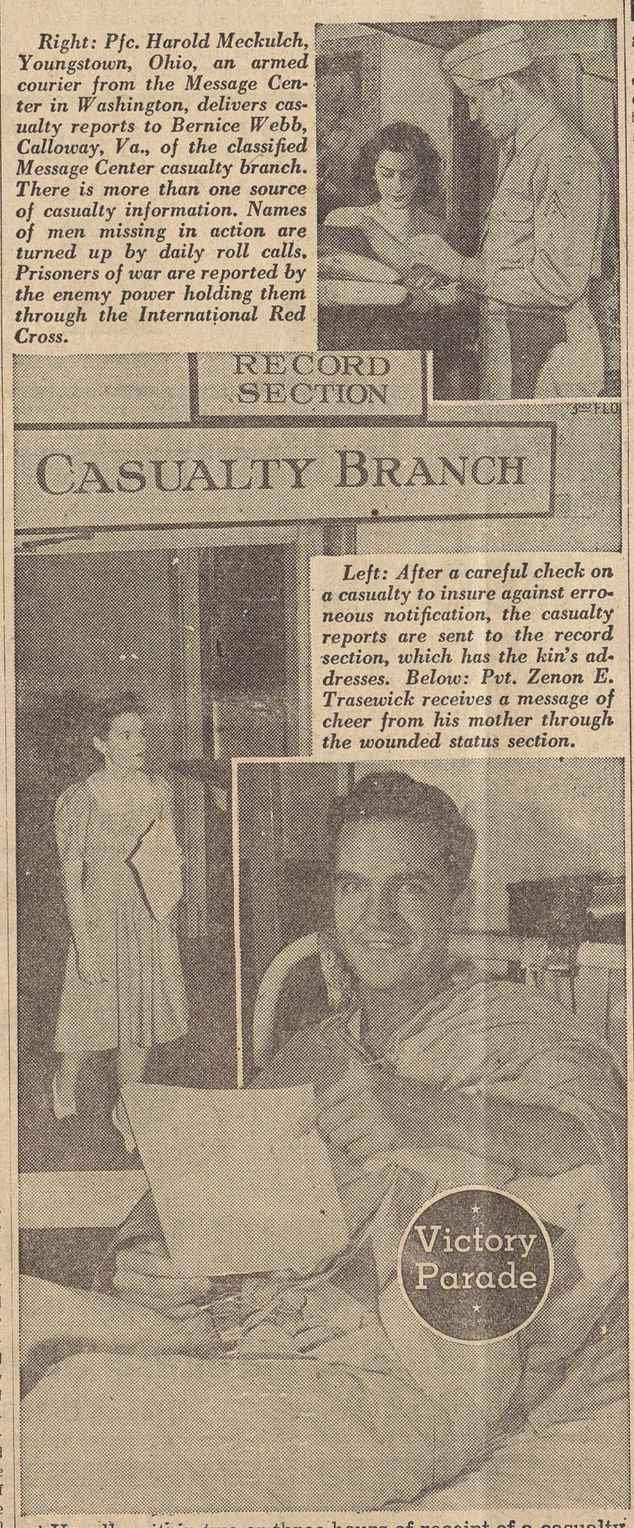
Right: Pfc. Harold Meckulch, Youngstown, Ohio, an armed courier from the Message Center in Washington, delivers casualty reports to Bernice Webb, Calloway, Va., of the classified Message Center casualty branch. There is more than one source of casualty information. Names of men missing in action are turned up by daily roll calls. Prisoners of war are reported by the enemy power holding them through the International Red Cross.



Left: After a careful check on a casualty to insure against erroneous notification, the casualty reports are sent to the record section, which has the kin's addresses. Below: Pvt. Zenon E. Trasewick receives a message of cheer from his mother through the wounded status section.

Usually within two or three hours of receipt of a casualty message from a theater of war, a telegram is on its way to the soldier's next of kin or to the person whom he designated to be notified in case of his serious illness.

Keep to Low Point Foods on Lunches
(See Recipes Below.)

Luncheon Aids

If you don't have the points for traditional staples to make up the children's midday lunches, then glance over the suggestions I'm giving you today. They're low on points, good on nourishment and high in health-giving vitamins and minerals.

Homemakers with growing children who must feed them at home during lunch, and then feed a very hungry husband at dinner, frequently find themselves low on points for these two important meals. They must be well balanced and satisfying or the family will suffer in days lost at school or at work and that's sabotage on the home front.

Sandwiches are an old stand-by and children look forward to them. To give a well-balanced lunch, they should be served with soups or salads.

It is smart to save bits of leftover vegetables from dinner, even if they amount to only a quarter of a cup, and then to use them for a soup for luncheon the next day. Think of the colorful soups that you can create from green peas, spinach and carrots. And as for nutrition, that's there in vegetables without saying!

Creamed Soup.
(Leftover Vegetables)
(Serves 4)

¼ cup pulp (onions, carrots, celery, peas, string beans or lima beans)
1 tablespoon flour
2 tablespoons butter or substitute
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2 cups milk

Add milk and seasonings to vegetable pulp. Blend butter with flour and add to milk and vegetable pulp. Bring to a boil and cook slowly for 4 minutes.

Cream of Corn Soup.
(Serves 6)

2 cups corn (canned or leftover)
2 cups boiling water
2 cups milk
1 slice onion
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
Salt and pepper

Place corn, boiling water, milk and onion in a saucepan. Simmer for 20 minutes. Rub through a sieve. Brown flour and butter together. Stir in corn mixture. Simmer 5 minutes. Serve very hot.

When making sandwiches, there's a tendency to fall into the same pattern and create real monotony. New ideas can quickly pep up lunches whether they're at home or in the lunch box. It's easy to achieve variety if you use low-point cream cheese or some of the wedgecuts flavored with pimiento, relish and chives. These furnish nutritious butter fat too, and you can take it easy on butter for spreading:

Lynn Says

Escort Ideas: The little things you do for food are as important as the big things you do for them in cooking correctly. For example, the bread pudding may be good, but it will be better with a spoonful of spicy apple butter on top, or a dab of grape jelly.

Make your meat casseroles interesting by leaving the vegetables in larger pieces. When you make a biscuit topping, use different types of cutters for biscuit dough—hatchets, diamonds, cloverleafs, etc.

Apple slices fried in bacon add fragrance to your kitchen, and have that hard-to-resist flavor when served with old fashioned griddle cakes.

Save Those Used Fats; Take Them to Your Butcher.

Luncheon Suggestion

*Cream of Corn Soup
*Cream Cheese and Peanut Sandwiches on Boston Brown Bread
*Date and Orange Salad
*Recipes Given

Cream Cheese and Peanut Sandwiches.
(Makes three)

½ six-ounce wedge cut of cream cheese
½ cup chopped salted peanuts
½ teaspoon lemon juice
⅛ teaspoon salt
6 slices white or whole wheat bread

Cream the cheese until soft. Add nuts, lemon juice and salt. Spread between slices of bread.

The other half of the wedge can be mixed with 2 tablespoons of lemon juice and pulp and 2 tablespoons of finely chopped nutmeats. This will give ½ cup of sandwich spread.

Devilled Cheese Sandwich Spread.
½ pound mild cream cheese
1 small onion
3 canned pimientoes
3 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon paprika
4 tablespoons mayonnaise

Grind the cheese, onion and pimiento. Add chopped eggs, seasonings and mayonnaise and mix well.

Liver Sandwich Spread.
1 chopped onion
1 tablespoon butter
2 hard-cooked eggs, minced
½ pound liver
⅓ cup cream
Salt and pepper

Brown onion in melted butter. Mix well with liver, blend in cream and seasoning and mix well. Keep spread in cool place until ready to use.

Cottage Cheese Spread.
1 cup well-seasoned cottage cheese
1 cup finely chopped peanuts
1 tablespoon mayonnaise
½ teaspoon salt

Combine all ingredients. Use either white bread or Boston brown bread.

Cheese and Dried Beef Spread.
½ pound American cheese
½ cup drained canned tomatoes
¼ cup butter or substitute
⅛ pound dried beef, chopped

Melt cheese in top of double boiler. Add tomatoes gradually, stirring occasionally. Add butter and blend thoroughly. Add dried beef and mix well. Store in refrigerator.

Chopped Meat Spread.
1 cup leftover meat, chopped
1 teaspoon mustard
2 finely chopped hard-cooked eggs
Chopped pickle or vinegar
Mayonnaise to moisten

Mix all together. Spread generously on buttered bread.

A fruit salad all quivery and delectable with fruit makes a perfect foil for a sandwich luncheon and gives your menu plenty of variety:

Date and Orange Salad.
(Serves 4)

1 package orange-flavored gelatin
1 cup boiling water
¾ cup cold water
1 tablespoon lemon juice
12 pitted dates, quartered
2 oranges, sectioned
Lettuce
Salad dressing

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add cold water and lemon juice and chill to the consistency of thick syrup. Fold in dates and orange sections. Pour into lightly oiled mold and chill until firm. Serve on lettuce with salad dressing mixed with lemon or orange juice, or both.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

A gallon of latex is about one-third rubber and two-thirds water.

GR-S, the synthetic rubber now used in civilian tire manufacture, requires more time in being fabricated at factories. With the equipment and labor shortage, this means that the industry has a tremendous problem ahead of it to make the 30 million new tires scheduled for 1944.

Back in 1823, when rubber shoes were shipped here from Brazil, they were not made according to sizes or for left and right feet. Just thick rubber coverings that were stretched over the regular leather shoes. They were solid in winter, gooey in summer.

LADIES IN POLITICS

If Bob Hannegan, recently elected chairman of the Democratic National Committee, thinks it's "poor economics" for the women's division of the party to spend $70,000 raising the paltry sum of $30,000, the ladies, in turn, think it was mighty ungallant of the new chief to let the embarrassing news be aired nationally.

Politicians older in the game than Mr. Hannegan could tell the young live-wire that maybe his move wasn't good economics either; that one of the most valuable tricks a politico can learn is to swallow his tongue at moments of high temperature. For ladies in politics are peculiar, they might insist, and this year they're apt to be even more so.

THE TABLES TURN

It is not a case of runaway optimism to feel that the war picture is darkening for both Germany and Japan.

When announcement was made recently that the eighth successive week had passed without the sinking of a single Allied merchant vessel in the West Atlantic, we paused for a moment to consider those terrifying blacked-out months when our boys sailed seas teeming with U-boats, hunting in torpedo-fanged wolf packs.

Since those dark days when our ship losses were tragic and constant, a new light has dawned on every front, kindled by the fighters themselves and kept blazing by a gigantic war production to put the finest tools in their hands on time.

Below Rome today, the German legions are stunned and shaken by repeated rebuffs on the beach-heads. Their sacrifices mount and their air force is unable to protect either the Nazi ground troops in Italy or adequately to defend their own cities of the Reich from Allied bomb devastation.

And on the South Pacific battle line, Tojo himself admits that Rabaul, great southern buttress of Japan's outer defense, is "untenable," while Truk, once so powerful as to be considered unapproachable, is in a similar category.

It is not unhealthily optimistic to feel that the tables are turning against our enemies. With loved ones in the fighting and casualty lists to stop our hearts momentarily each day, it is good to pause and think occasionally that the way is a little clearer than it was a year ago, two years, three. We cannot forget that our fighting sons abroad and the fighting spirit at home are making it so.

ADVENTURE IN PROSPERITY

"There is no need for a post-war depression," observes Bernard M. Baruch in his study and report on the anticipated economic upheaval due with peace. "Handled with competence, our adjustment, after the war is won, should be an adventure in prosperity."

If the prosperity is sound and healthy, the country will gratefully welcome such an adventure—for it has seen too little of the valid variety for too long. The Baruch prescription for a painless war-to-peace transition may be the very tonic that brings a war-fevered Nation back to the brightest road in its history.

It is heartening to find that a foremost thinker in the public scene, whose judgment is widely trusted and who recognizes all the pitfalls, believes that post-war adjustments need not constitute a debacle.

Club Party a Great Success

The Sunset Cliff Navy Mothers Club 151, entertained 30 of the convalescent boys of the Naval hospital, at a wienie roast, last Wednesday and from the many happy sounds coming from the Woman's clubhouse, it was hard to tell who enjoyed it the most, the boys or the mothers—however, everyone left with big smiles, so a general good time was enjoyed by all.

A hand-knit wheel chair robe and a harmonica was presented by the club, to two of the boys.

Several of the mothers were very fortunate to have their own sons present. Commander Echo Howard and her son, Bob; Mrs. McClellan and her son, Ralph; Mrs. Wallace and Bill, and Mrs. Hasha and Chucky—all are service men.

The guests were Chaplain and Mrs. Ernest, National Welfare chairman, Corpsman Peterman and Mrs. Kick of National City.

The wienie roast brought so much happiness to these boys, that many plans are being made by the club, for other parties later in the spring when the mothers can give an old fashion wienie roast over an open fire in the patio of their homes.

A beautiful hand-knitted quilt was given to the club by Mrs. Bartman Coffman, police matron, and was presented to a boy in the Naval hospital.

At the last meeting held on Washington's birthday, a short address was made by Mrs. Weber, Americanism chairman, on President George Washington.

The sewing chairman, Mrs. Koenig, reported a great deal was accomplished last month in hospital sewing.

U.S.O. Club

The Ocean Beach U.S.O. was given a surprise Washington birthday party on Tuesday evening, Feb. 22nd, by the Kiwanis club of Ocean Beach. Cherry pies and other refreshments were furnished. It is pleasing to note the quick response for help in carrying on this good work. Also, many magazines and games are coming in, some of which are being sent to ships for amusement of the boys at sea. Please do not forget that cookies, doughnuts and cakes are always needed.

The Red Cross In Ocean Beach

By ONA E. PITCOCK

Tuesday, Feb. 29th was cookie day and 48 dozen delicious cookies were packed. Mrs. Bernice Larson sent a birthday box of iced cup cakes with candles and napkins. A boy in the very sick ward had a birthday that day and did they have a party. You see he only has a birthday every four years. Red Cross tells us it was enjoyed so much. I wish you could realize what these small things do for our boys. American boys cling so to our traditions. For instance at Christmas in the South Pacific the boys in one hut decided it would not be Christmas without a tree so they tied several palm leaves together, cut them to look like a tree, and then decorated it with beads and bracelets borrowed from the natives. They pooled all their sweets and invited everyone in that came along on Christmas Eve. They write they had 70 visitors greeted and fed by 10:30 that night and that it was sure fun. One of the boys in the hut had studied for a minister so he read them the Christmas story and they said they felt as if they were right at home on Christmas Eve. What boys we have. God bless them each and every one. They said they had turkey and all the trimmings although it was not quite like "Mom's" turkey, still it was turkey. One boy in that hut owned a dog. He said one part of her was fox terrier, the other part not determined as yet but she was a swell pooch. You can't beat boys like ours. Please don't forget our present box at the center. Miss Nye says she sent 59 packages out to a camp and they were so much enjoyed. A puzzle, a book, a game, anything that a man can use. Cigarettes are enjoyed.

Azure Vista is now holding a night class in home nursing. First lesson was held Feb. 28th at the project auditorium. The instructor is Mrs. Robert A. Bussery,

A man returning from the war front was very reluctant about telling how he won all the medals on his breast but he did say that wherever there was suffering angels were there to soothe them. The angels in this case are Red Cross nurses. I do not have to tell you about the workings of the Red Cross or how heavy the work of this war is or how badly your money and services are needed, most of you have loved ones in this horrible war, but I know you will give until it hurts to this wonderful cause.

Come or call the Ocean Beach Red Cross center, B-5639 and see how you can help, also don't forget to call F-7704 and make an appointment to donate your blood.

All we can do is so little compared to what they are doing. Don't let them down.

Help the Red Cross because wherever your man goes right beside him goes the Red Cross, even into the front lines. There is no better way to help your loved ones than to donate to the Red Cross war fund of 1944.

Methodist Pastor Offers Lenten Series

The Point Loma Methodist church will offer a new series of discussions during Lent on the subject "The Six Pillars of Peace" Rev. James F. Roberts announced today. There will be a different speaker for each Wednesday evening to discuss the main theme. Assisting each speaker in the discussion period will be a panel of three. John Overdeer will be the first speaker. Rev. Roberts will be the chairman and will lead the discussion. These meetings will be in cooperation with the Bishops' Crusade of the Methodist church.

A cordial invitation is extended to everyone and especially those who have friends or relatives in the armed forces of our country. Come and share with us your opinions in this fellowship.

W.N.U. FEATURES

THE STORY THUS FAR: Lieut. Col. Frank Kurtz, pilot of the Flying Fortress known as "The Swoose," which escaped from Clark Field, tells of that fatal day when the Japs struck in the Philippines. Old 99, another Fortress, is struck down before it can get off the ground. The ground is littered with the skeletons of U. S. planes. No longer safe to sleep in the barracks, because Japs are photographing Clark Field, cots were moved into the middle of a cornfield. Later, they evacuate to Mindanao, and as they arrive Japs are already putting troops ashore on the island. Squadron Commander Major Gibbs goes out on a secret mission and fails to return. Harry Schreiber, the navigator, takes up the story.

CHAPTER VI

"About an hour out of Del Monte, Shorty Wheless drops out of formation—we guess it's engine trouble and he can't keep up this rate of climb—and half an hour later Pease. As we come to the rendezvous point where we're due to make our turn and go straight in on our target, only thirty-five miles away, Lee Coats drops out—his motors we can see are weak, he can't make the altitude.

"That leaves just my pilot, Jack Adams, and Vandevanter to go on in alone. When we thought there would be six planes, we had planned to divide into two flights of three planes each. The flights were to come in on the target at three-minute intervals and at different angles.

"There are just two planes now, so Jack decides he'll pretend he is one flight and Vandevanter will play like he was the other. The two of us against this big gang of Jap ships we are closing in on.

"So, as agreed on, we come in first—flying north to south. But the overcast is so thick we have to get down to about 18,000 before we can see the target, and there it is—we're glimpsing it and then losing it and glimpsing it again through breaks in the clouds—a row of transports and naval craft escorting them.

"When we come in on the target, I'm down there in the lower jaw. But now my job as navigator is temporarily over, so I can leave it and go back to the bomb bay, where the bombs are hanging in racks on either side of a little aisle.

"Now the bomb-bay doors are opened, and light comes up around the bombs. And now the bombs are away. I lean over to look down through the open bomb-bay doors, feeling a little woozy because my oxygen mask is back by my seat in the navigator's compartment, and just before Jack Adams from his pilot's seat slammed those bomb-bay doors closed, looking down below the belly of the ship I think I see something, but then the doors slam shut and there is only blackness. So I run back to the navigator's compartment, and, boy! there they are—a whole gang of Zeros coming up after us. How did I feel? Just the way anybody feels the first time, no matter what they pretend later—it scared the hell out of me.

"There were five of them after us—climbing up and in on our tail. Our bottom gunner shot down the nearest one, but the other four kept coming in a tight formation. Jack Adams began wish-washing our tail up and down to give our top gunners a chance at them—no reason why the bottom gunner should have all the fun—and sure enough, the top gunner picked one out of that formation. That left three.

"So then Jack pulled a cute one. He throttled back suddenly and one Zero overshot us to the left, which made him a clay pigeon for our side gunner, who picked him off. Then still another came up under our stabilizer in the tail, and our bottom gunner got his second for the day. That made four Zeros down and one to go—and it was still going for us in spite of all we could do.

"We'd dribbled on down through the bottom of that cloud, and Jack was looking for a nice beach to set her down on. But there wasn't any beach—only jagged rocks with white surf wrapped around them—and we kept losing altitude.

"The hell with those, so Jack nosed her in toward land, still losing altitude fast, and then right ahead of us we spotted a big clump of trees—about sixty feet high. Well, there wasn't time for anything but a prayer, and not any long rambling one either. But Jack handled the situation beautifully. He pulled her nose up as high as he dared and just cleared those trees, and then, cutting the remaining two motors so we wouldn't have to climb out of her in flames, he made as nice a belly landing in a rice patch as you could hope for.

"You've forgotten that one remaining Zero? Well, I hadn't, because it had followed us all the way down. I crawled out as fast as I could and started running away from the plane parallel to the wing. The funny thing was Bill Railling, the co-pilot, was either stunned or felt comfortable right where he was. Anyway, he stayed right in his seat while this Zero circled and then came in, right along the line of our wing. I just had time to fall down on my chin and then it all happened in a split second. The Zero's guns opened up, so that the first slugs began kicking up the dust about thirty yards away in a straight line just a yard from my chin as she went by with a big wh-h-h-i-i-ish-sh-sh!—the slugs beating a tattoo along the length of the Fort's wing, with old Railling dreaming away there, all relaxed in his seat, right in the middle of them, and, believe it or not, the boy wasn't even scratched!

"Within three minutes of the time we crash-landed in the rice paddy behind those tall trees we were surrounded by a gang of Filipinos, all waving the longest, sharpest knives you'd want to see. But pretty soon we convinced them we weren't Japanese, so they all got helpful and told us we were on Masbate Island.

"Because these natives wanted to honor the American officers who were fighting for their country, they brought me a donkey to ride. Of course to have refused would insult them, and yet I didn't dream the kind of a deal I was getting into. The first half-mile wasn't so bad, and I even thought I was lucky I wasn't walking and getting sore feet, like you do in the infantry. But pretty soon I began to realize, first just a little bit, and then more and more, that there are worse things than having sore feet.

"We crashed on the fourteenth of December and on the twentieth we bought an outrigger canoe for fifty pesos, and hired natives to sail and paddle us to the island of Panay, with me getting a chance to brush up on my navigating. When we were about forty miles from land I noticed the skipper of this craft of ours had crawled up into its nose and was peering down into the water. Why? Well, he explained, there were supposed to be a lot of floating Japanese mines here, and he thought it would be all right if we didn't bump any of them.

"The next day we landed on Panay, and were told the American forces were all ganged up down at its southern end, and when we got to them we reported to General Chynoweth. Then we really were in for it. Because it seemed the old 19th Bombardment Group had left Mindanao for Australia; so they grabbed us and attached us to a Filipino Field Artillery regiment, giving Jack Adams, Bill Railling, and myself a battalion to command, which we thought was going to be a considerable honor, since we were only lieutenants.

"Then we looked them over. They were all about high-school age. Half of them didn't speak English, and the job was to get them to understand you. Of course they didn't know what to do with a rifle, but this didn't matter, because we had only fifteen rounds of ammunition per man—not enough for an hour's target practice.

"The Field Artillery part of it all consisted of the name, plus six sights for old World War French 75-millimeter field guns. The guns themselves had been sunk on a supply ship in Manila Bay. The sights had been shined up and were in prime condition.

"We didn't encourage these kids to keep their rifles loaded, being afraid that if one of the guns went off in the dark they would start banging away and shoot each other and maybe us, so we gave them bayonet practice instead. Early in January they moved us over to Caygayen on Mindanao Island—we heard all the troops from all the islands were to make a stand there. But no Japs. They gave us a section of the beach a mile and a half long to defend if they came.

"Right behind our lines there was a small Jap colony. We knew they were there, of course—we'd gone through their houses looking for radio equipment, anything they might use to send information to the Davao Japs—and we posted a small guard around them. But they'd slip out and go on down to Davao to join the Davao Japs, and there wasn't much we could do to stop it. We were only a handful ourselves.

"So I was tickled to death when word came to go back to old Del Monte Field, where the planeless aviators were being assembled for evacuation to Australia, where we would get safely back into the air again.

"I got to Del Monte on March thirteenth and we were all ganged up on the field, where we were expecting B-17's to carry officers and men to Australia. At 9 p. m. we heard the motors of a plane and turned on our landing lights. But it didn't see them and kept on going. We didn't know it then, but we didn't have A1 priority, for those planes that night were intended to take out General MacArthur and his party and their baggage and records—only the General hadn't yet arrived. But we supposed the planes were for us.

"About 11 p. m. we heard another plane and snapped the landing lights on, and this time it saw them and landed. Out of the Fortress stepped Lieutenant Pease of our own 19th Bombardment Group. He told us the other plane we had heard was Godman's—it had got mixed up and bumped into the sea.

"But Pease was immediately called over by General Sharp, who told Pease that General MacArthur had been delayed, and that the plane should wait over a few days until he came.

"Now Pease didn't want to wait over for a single hour of daylight on Del Monte Field, for by that time the Jap planes were swarming over the place. Pease knew the Air Force was trying desperately to hang onto what few Forts they had left, and he realized that if he stayed over the next day the infantry would make him quite comfortable in a foxhole at the edge of the field, where he could watch his plane become the prize for a Japanese turkey shoot, for Del Monte by this time was as unsafe as Clark had been, a fact the infantry didn't seem to have quite grasped.

"So Pease explained to Sharp it would be all right with him, provided General MacArthur understood what he was getting into, that he had a fine plane here except that it had just come from the Java war and was slightly out of repair. It was too bad, for instance, that the superchargers were out, but he hoped he'd be able to clear the runway on the take-off and not slip off into a cartwheel at the end of it, spilling the General's party and all that baggage all over central Mindanao. And then, if he did take off, there was the little matter of his hydraulic system, which had gone bad on him, so when he came to land the brakes wouldn't work, and he might not be able to stop when he came to the end of the runway.

"Well, General Sharp decided that it certainly wasn't suitable, and told Pease he'd better get started back to Australia before dawn.

" 'Pease,' I said, 'I'm goin' with you. You don't know it, but you got a new navigator for this trip. Because I'm not goin' to stay in this damn place no more.'

"Well, Pease agreed to let me work out my passage that way, and also said he could take off fifteen other planeless aviators if they didn't mind the risk.

"We all got in, and discovered Pease hadn't been bragging a bit about his plane when he talked to the General. It was in just as terrible shape as he had said it was; in fact, he had been overly modest about it.

"Now take a look at us in Australia. Exactly forty-eight hours after we arrived the Australians told us Radio Tokyo had broadcast, 'It is now understood the American Flying Fortresses are operating from Batchelor Field near Darwin,' and they were one hundred per cent right.

"How they knew it we never learned for sure—probably from Jap pearl fishermen, who had been thinly scattered along this Australian coast and who when war broke out went back and hid in the bush. The RAAF (Royal Australian Air Force) boys would spot their campfires at night and try to track them down, without much luck. Probably they had radio senders, and even a layman could count our four engines and recognize us as Flying Fortresses.

"The country itself is as desolate and sparsely populated as the worst parts of West Texas and New Mexico, and the most important town for a thousand or so miles is little Port Darwin, with seven or eight thousand people, sitting there on the rim of Nothing-at-All. It has wide streets—like one of those Midwestern towns built in the boom of the eighties—a good hotel which is subsidized by the Qantas Airways and reminds you of the one on Wake Island, a band which plays in a bandstand in the park, and a zoo with a few emus, kangaroos, and koala bears. No fresh vegetables, everything imported in cans. There you have Darwin.

"Batchelor Field was about forty miles back in the brush, and it consisted of a couple of runways hacked out of the mesquite (it was hard to get tools for grading or dynamite for stumps) and a hangar run by the RAAF.

Ideas for Making Up Plaids To Please the Little Folks

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

THIS is the time of year when women who do home sewing feel the urge to "get busy." The art of sewing these days has become something more than a thrifty project that dutiful housewives regard as their responsibility. It has come to be regarded as a coveted accomplishment and a very "modern" gesture to make your own clothes.

Pleasurable as it is to make pretty apparel for oneself, there is that something about sewing for the youngsters in the family that is as much fun and recreation as it is work. The styles for little folks are so cunning, the materials so intriguing and the response so enthusiastic when the children don their new clothes, that the whole sewing program is turned into a fascinating pastime for doting mothers.

The new plaids and checks are so smart this season for tots and teen-agers that they are positively inspirational. Piecing together a jigsaw picture or playing a game of bridge or working out a crossword puzzle does not pay near the big dividends in joy and satisfaction that a mother receives when she witnesses the delight of little daughter as she pirouettes before the mirror or dances about the room in glee over the gay little pinafore or frock or "what have you" made just for her by loving hands.

Every whit as interesting as the fabrics themselves are the ideas involved in the making of chic wearing apparel for the school, play and party wear of eagerly appreciative little daughters. Doesn't the little girl pictured above to the left in the illustration look cute in her plaid gingham suit? This smart suit is literally a case of "like mother like child" for the big news in the adult realm is that of suits made of smart cottons, especially gay ginghams which grown-ups will be wearing this summer during the active hours of the day. But if mother thinks she is going to "steal the show" in the style parade with her smart cotton plaids she will find herself out-rivaled by the "picture" little daughter will make in her gay plaid jacket and skirt. Children love the suit idea and it is indeed practical, as it affords blouse changes that offer pleasing variety. The "trick" that adds zest to the smart little suit here shown is that by laying the plaid a certain way a clever horizontal stripe effect is achieved for the all-around pleated skirt—that is, when the lively little wearer stands still. The jacket is single-breasted and patch-pocketed.

Waiting for the first bell, the little Missy to the right above leans against the school fence long enough to have her picture taken. The basque bodice of this attractive school dress of "classy" cotton has diagonal stitching worked to simulate quilting. Try out this idea of stitching plain materials with multi-colored threads. Little daughter will love the stripes and plaids that can be worked with stitching. Fancy stitch only the blouse top, for it is more effective with the skirt left plain. White collar and cuffs, as pictured, give a neat demure look and add flattery.

The ever-so-attractive "zip-cord" skirt-and-suspender dress to the left is fashioned of a cotton-woven check weave that comes in red, green, blue or brown. With it this happy little girl wears a dainty cotton dimity peasant blouse. This fashion is as practical as it is pretty, for with different blouses many pleasing changes can be had.

Ideal for dress-up wear is the taffeta plaid dress in the foreground. It has a cunning apron of red taffeta bordered with the plaid, which is detachable. The sleeves and neckline are lace trimmed. It's a darling dress to wear to a party.

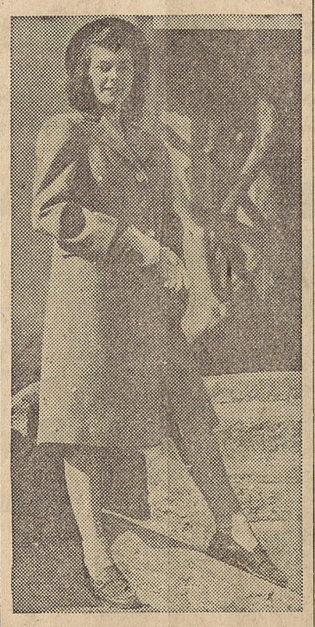
Gray Chesterfield



In the coat scene for spring, the slogan "if it's a Chesterfield it's smart" holds good. This one is in gray wool because gray is the outstanding neutral shade for the coming season. It has a trim velveteen collar. Buttons are placed high near the lapels. The young lady wears a navy blue wool derby with the coat. It is also very fashionable to wear brown accessories. One of the large over-arm bags in brown suede would be very smart.

Year-Round Cottons Smart and Practical

Interest in cottons soars to a new high. More and more women recognize both the practicality and the style value of cottons. There is no occasion but what there is a smart cotton to tune to the time and the environs. Just now, at the beginning of the spring season, interest is centering about suits made of tweedy looking cottons that have the appearance of finest wool fabric. Later, the fashion picture will be fairly stampeded with stunning suits made of bright plaid ginghams. However, the trend that out-fashions all previous showings will be the accessories made of gingham that will be worn with simple little wool frocks, notably the new straightlined fabric-rationed black dress. Then too, the jackets of these jaunty little black suit-dresses will be lined with gingham to match.

Gay Embroidered Midriff Accents Simple Dress

A dress may be ever so simple but it does call for some one or other dashing highspot to give it distinction. In the new gaily embroidered belts, girdles and midriff sections you have just that. If you are resourceful you will buy a wide suede belt or a smart ready-made ribbon belt and embroider it with beads of gay yarn. Many of the simple little wool frocks now so beloved are made with inset belts. Women who have a knack of adding "the touch that tells" are embroidering the inset section with sequins or beadwork. Gives gorgeous accent to even the most conservative dress.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1924 is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15, 17 and 19. Corresponding bust measurements 29, 31, 33, 35 and 37. Size 13 (31) short sleeves, requires 3⅝ yards 39-inch material.

Household Hints

Old pillow cases make good dress covers. Just slit the closed end and pull the case over the garment on the hanger.

When shortening a dress, snap a rubber band around a yardstick at the desired length line and measure the dress from the floor.

After washing cooking utensils used for fish, rub with orange or lemon rind to remove any lingering odor of fish.

To avoid stretching, line the pockets of knitted sweaters with sateen.

Work clothes will keep clean longer if they are starched. Factory managers recommend a hard finish because it is safer around machines.

"Once Took Laxatives 3 or 4 Times a Week," She Says!

Are you, too, a disappointed "doser"? Then read this unsolicited letter!

"I'd started working nights, and with my way of living changed around, I soon found I was taking 3 or 4 laxatives a week, and feeling terrible. Then I heard about KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN through your radio program, 'The Breakfast Club.' Since taking my daily helping of ALL-BRAN, I am regular as clockwork. Thanks for what your ALL-BRAN has done for me!" Mrs. Myrtle Wood, 274 Baumanville St., Akron, Ohio.

Yes, it does seem like magic, the way KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN helps so many people. "Gets at" one common cause of constipation—lack of enough dietary "cellulosic" elements! That's because ALL-BRAN is one of Nature's most effective sources of these elements—which help the friendly colonic flora fluff up and prepare the colonic contents for easy, natural elimination! KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is not a purgative! It's a gentle-acting, "regulating" food!

If your constipation is this kind, eat KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN regularly, with milk and fruit, or mixed with other cereals. Drink plenty of water. See if you don't find real help! Insist on genuine ALL-BRAN, made only by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

Kidneys Must Work Well-

For You To Feel Well

24 hours every day, 7 days every week, never stopping, the kidneys filter waste matter from the blood.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove surplus fluid, excess acids and other waste matter that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole system is upset when kidneys fail to function properly.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warns that something is wrong. You may suffer nagging backache, headaches, dizziness, rheumatic pains, getting up at nights, swelling.

Why not try Doan's Pills? You will be using a medicine recommended the country over. Doan's stimulate the function of the kidneys and help them to flush out poisonous waste from the blood. They contain nothing harmful. Get Doan's today. Use with confidence. At all drug stores.

NOW WEARS SIX RIBBONS AND NAVY CROSS

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Aird, 4495 Niagara st., received word this week from their son-in-law, Lt. Albert Winchell, U.S.N., stationed at Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., an account of his latest award, which follows:

Lt. (jg) Albert W. Winchell, U.S.N., now wears six ribbons. His latest, presented by the commanding officer on behalf of the President of the United States, is for the presidential unit citation to the U.S.S. Enterprise which arrived from the Chief of Naval Personnel early this week. The citation is quoted in part:

"For consistently outstanding performance and distinguished achievement during repeated action against enemy Japanese forces in the Pacific War Area, December 7, 1941, to November 15, 1942. Participating in nearly every major carrier engagement in the first year of the war, the Enterprise and her Air Group, exclusive of her far-flung destruction of hostile shore installations throughout the battle area, did sink or damage, on her own, a total of ——— Japanese vessels and shoot down a total of ——— Japanese aircraft. Her aggressive fighting spirit and superb combat efficiency are fitting tribute to the officers and men who so gallantly established her as a solid bulwark in defense of the American Nation."

It is signed by the Secretary of the Navy. Winchell's other ribbons are: Navy Cross, American Defense, Pacific Theatre, American Theatre and Good Conduct.

His Navy Cross was awarded for his work in the battle of Midway. He succeeded in hitting a Jap warship with a torpedo and was shot down by Japanese airplanes on the way back to his carrier. He ramined in a life raft for 17 days, was eventually rescued by a PBY airplane and arrived on board his ship three hours after his memorial service had been held. Winchell participated in all of the early battles of the war in which the Enterprise took part up to and including the battle of Midway in early June, 1942. He has been a flight instructor on this station for about a year.
